Darts Drivel – Week 6

The sweet smell of success

Brad Chisholm did well at the threes and gave me some sound direction on how things should work at competition level. “We don’t use board four here,” I was advised as the competition raced along seamlessly. “Slow things down we need to get the pies out and sell some beer,” voiced a worried Jason. “Pies” squealed Tony, in delight, as he scoffed 50% of them. With No board four and too many pies Brad tried number two. At least that’s what it smelled like as he knocked out all before him in what some would consider a violation of the Geneva Protocol for the Prohibition of Asphyxiating, Poisonous or other Gases. ‘Is a well-placed fart classed as foul play or gamesmanship?’ Congratulations to Brad, Burnie and Lee who are enjoying the sweet smell of success as the new 3’s, number 1’s, on board 2, because we don’t use board 4 here.

New Signings.

There was some speculation that Joey Barton may have been signing for the Auldhoose and the question of them fighting amongst themselves, throwing matches and betting on results was almost on the agenda for the next committee meeting. The fears were alleviated when Sheepy declared "Big Craig widnae pay 25p a week never mind 25 grand." Meanwhile Jamie Rodgers has transferred from East Linton to the Auldhoose for an undisclosed fee.

Brad says he didnae fart. He was blowing kisses from his intestines.
